Jose Luis Ballester Wins the 2024 Championship

How about celebrating your 21st birthday and hoisting the Havemeyer Trophy on the same day? That's what Jose Luis Ballester, of Spain, experienced on a glorious Sunday at Hazeltine National Golf Club. But the 2-up win over Noah Kent in the 36-hole final of the 124th U.S. Amateur Championship nearly had his opponent blow out the candles before making his ultimate wish.

Ballester, No. 10 in the World Amateur Golf Ranking®/WAGR®, watched a 4-up lead with six to play nearly evaporate into nearby Lake Hazeltine before he stopped the hemorrhaging over the final two holes to become the first player from his country to win this prestigious title, and just the second to claim any USGA championship (Jon Rahm 2021 U.S. Open).

He's also the fourth Sun Devil to etch his name on the Havemeyer trophy, joining Billy Mayfair (1987), Phil Mickelson (1990) and Jeff Quinney (2000).

"I think I'm still not conscious of what just happened today," said Ballester. "Super thankful to have the opportunity to live this moment, especially on my 21st birthday. That's what I'm considering now.

"Super sweet. Again, we have many great Spaniards, many great legends, and being able to add my name into that history, it's pretty sweet."

Both players are exempt into the 2025 U.S. Open at Oakmont (Pa.) Country Club and likely will be invited to next April's Masters. Ballester gets an additional spot into The Open Championship at Royal Portrush in Northern Ireland.

Kent, 19, of Naples, Fla., was the sentimental favorite with a vast majority of the boisterous gallery rooting for the University of Iowa sophomore, who was trying to be the first Hawkeye to win the U.S. Amateur and second USGA championship following Gene Elliott's 2021 U.S. Senior Amateur triumph.

Many folks, including his teammates, made the four-hour drive north. For the past two days, an entourage led by his uncle were decked out in yellow Caitlin Clark t-shirts and helped give the match a mini-Ryder Cup feel. A few were chanting "USA! USA!" yells that will definitely emanate on the property when the Matches return to Hazeltine in 2029.

But the narrative bore more of a resemblance to the 2006 U.S. Amateur final, when the high-profile European (Scotland's Richie Ramsay was a member of the 2005 Great Britain & Ireland Walker Cup Team) defeated the unheralded American, University of Missouri golfer John Kelly, in the final at Hazeltine.

Kent, competing in his first USGA competition and owning the No. 560 spot in the WAGR, doesn't own a major amateur victory, although he was the runner-up in this year's Porter Cup,

Meanwhile, Ballester, a three-time All-American at Arizona State, claimed the 2023 European Amateur to earn an exemption into The Open Championship at Royal Liverpool. He's also represented his country in the last two World Amateur Team Championships in France (2022) and United Arab Emirates (2023) and was a member of the International Palmer Cup Team earlier this summer.

Of course, rankings and past finishes don't mean a thing once everyone arrives on the first tee, and given the pro-Kent crowd, Ballester knew he had a major challenge on his hand.

Things certainly got testy late when Ballesteros registered a double bogey on the par-3 31st and two more bogeys on Nos. 32 and 34 to see his 4-up lead trimmed to 1 up.

Both players hit the green on the 167-yard, par-3 35th hole. With the flagstick tucked just above a ridge in the right-front portion of the green, it made for a tricky tee shot. Ballester watched as Kent missed a 30-footer up the hill, and then coaxed an extremely quick 20-footer to 3 feet, which he converted for par.

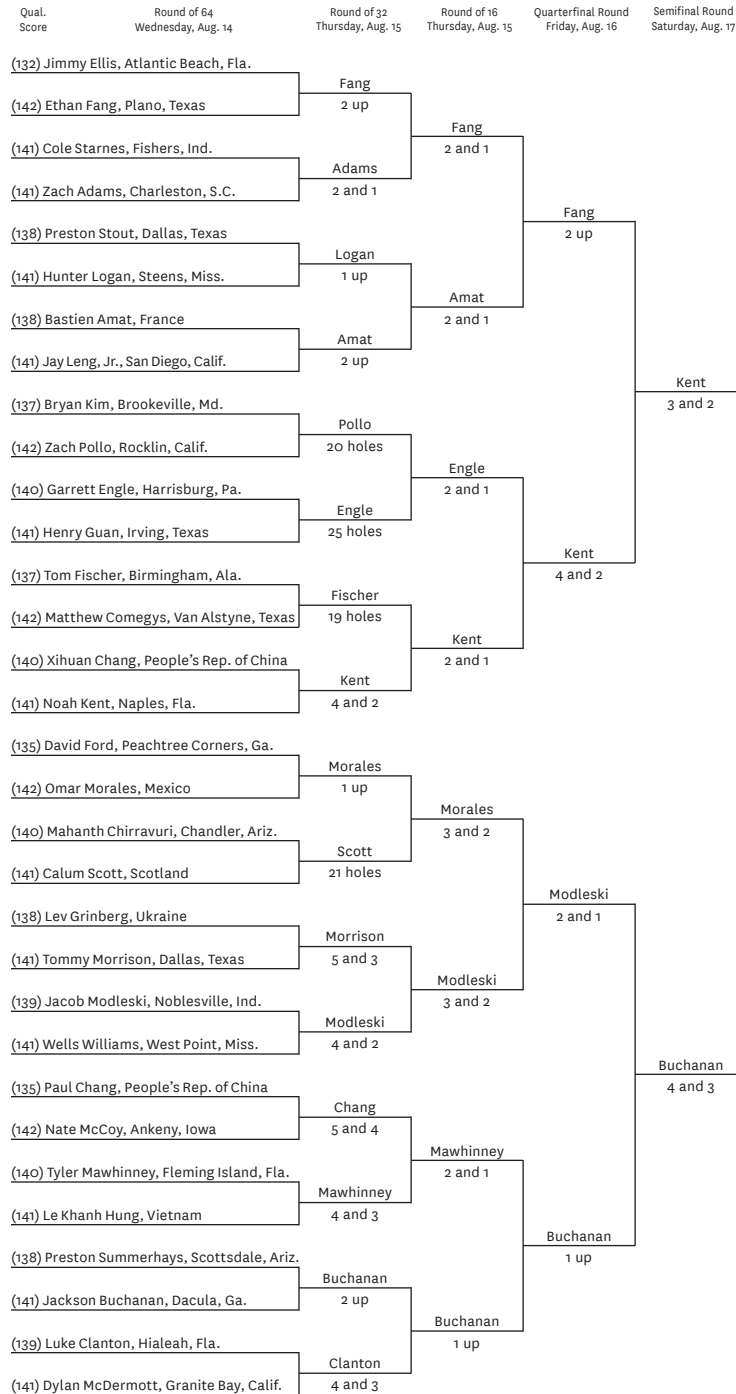

With the honors on the par-4 36th, Kent thought he hit a perfect drive, only to see the ball bounce into a bunker right of the fairway. Ballester stepped up and hit one of his best drives of the afternoon round, leaving himself 185 yards up the hill. A smooth 7-iron found the putting surface some 15 feet below the hole. Kent overcooked his 3-iron approach from 170 yards into gnarly greenside rough left of the green. His recovery shot went 30 feet past the flagstick, and he was unable to convert the long par putt.

Ballester rolled his birdie attempt to tap-in range and the long day was over. Before doing the prize ceremony on the green, the Spaniard teared up as he thought of all the people who have helped him reach the pinnacle of amateur golf, including Victor Garcia, the father of Masters champion Sergio Garcia and his longtime coach.

Ballester took control of the morning 18 late when Kent three-putted both 16 and 17 for bogey to lose the holes and go into the lunch break 4 down. Kent came out firing for the second 18. He chipped in for birdie on the 19th hole, only to see Ballester win the 20th with a 10-foot birdie of his own. Undeterred, Kent registered a two-putt birdie on the par-5 21st to trim the margin to 3 down, and four holes later, he rolled in a 25-foot eagle putt.

And after doing all the media interviews, including a Zoom call with reporters back in Spain, Ballester left the premises with the Havemeyer Trophy, and ready to celebrate the hours remaining of his 21st birthday.

Championship History

The U.S. Amateur Championship is the oldest USGA championship and it was created in 1895 because of a controversy. In 1894, two clubs -- Newport (R.I.) Golf Club and New York's St. Andrew's Golf Club -- had conducted invitational tournaments to attract the nation's top amateur players.

Both clubs proclaimed their winners as the national champion, while Charles Blair Macdonald, a prominent player and course architect, was the runner-up in both.

Before the final day of the St. Andrew's tournament, it was announced that an association composed of all the clubs in the United States would be formed in the ensuing months. This new national governing body would oversee a universally recognized championship and create a written set of rules.

With that, representatives from Newport Golf Club, St. Andrew's Golf Club, The Country Club in Brookline, Mass., Shinnecock Hills Golf Club in Southampton, N.Y., and Chicago Golf Club founded the USGA on Dec. 22, 1894, and the inaugural U.S. Amateur Championship was conducted the following year, along with the U.S. Open and U.S. Women's Amateur.

The Amateur and Open Championships were conducted at Newport Golf Club during the same week of October and Macdonald became the first U.S. Amateur champion.

The Amateur Championship is the oldest golf championship in this country — one day older than the U.S. Open. Except for an eight-year period from 1965-1972, when it was stroke play, the Amateur has been a match-play championship.

Over the years, as interest in the game grew and the number of quality players increased, it became necessary to establish a national handicapping system to determine who was eligible to compete in the Amateur. The USGA's first national handicap list, which was published for the 1912 championship, was the forerunner of the present-day USGA Handicap System.

Throughout its history, the U.S. Amateur has been the most coveted of all amateur titles. Many of the great names of professional golf, such as Gene Littler, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Lanny Wadkins, Craig Stadler, Jerry Pate, Mark O'Meara, Hal Sutton, Phil Mickelson and Tiger Woods, grace the Havemeyer Trophy.

It was, however, longtime amateur Robert T. Jones Jr. who first attracted media coverage and spectator attendance at the Amateur Championship. Jones captured the championship five times (1924, 1925, 1927, 1928, 1930). His 1930 victory was a stunning moment in golf history when, at Merion Cricket Club in Ardmore, Pa., Jones rounded out the Grand Slam, winning the four major American and British championships in one year.

Sixty-six years later, in 1996, Tiger Woods attracted similar interest and enthusiasm when he won a record third consecutive U.S. Amateur at Pumpkin Ridge Golf Club in North Plains, Ore. In 1994, Woods, at 18, had first entered the record book as the youngest ever to win the Amateur Championship. In 1996, he broke yet another record when he won, having registered 18 consecutive match-play victories.

International players also have made a major impact in the last two decades, with Nick Flanagan (Australia, 2003), Edoardo Molinari (Italy, 2005), Richie Ramsay (Scotland, 2006), Danny Lee (New Zealand, 2008), Byeong-Hun An (Republic of Korea, 2009), Matthew Fitzpatrick (England, 2013), Gunn Yang (Republic of Korea, 2014), Curtis Luck (Australia, 2016) and Viktor Hovland (Norway, 2018) taking the title.

In 2020, the U.S. Amateur was conducted during the COVID-19 pandemic. Due to health and safety protocols, qualifying was canceled. The field was all-exempt and the number of players was reduced to 264.

Nick Dunlap joined Tiger Woods as the only players to win both the U.S. Junior Amateur and U.S. Amateur with his victory in 2023 at Cherry Hills Country Club.
